COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT THE

Ashland, June 17 .- Hot but bright and plendent scene last evening. Every neck beautiful broke to-day. The college camous is alive with pretty girls, stately matrons, and gay young men. The con-trast is striking when they mingle with the ions were but a demonstration of most ober and sedate black cloth of the many prominent ministers. Kesnich's band, from Richmond, is stationed under the broad oaks on the campus and their music is bright and happy. The Board of Trustees were in session all the morning considering the reports of the Finance Committee and linger as a bright and happy event in the other committees that have been appointed. The election of trustees to fill vacancies has been postponed until to-morrow, when the full board will be in attendance. The faculty had a full meeting and awarded diplomas with degrees as follows:

W. R. Old, C. H. Davis, R. T. Webb, Jr., G. E. Barnett, A. R. Dudderar, B. M. Beckham, R. L. Fults, B. W. Arnold, J. C. Hawk, M. S. Colonna, and G. W. Dyer.

S. C. Starke, D. P. Parham, C. H. Davis, D. B. Easter, W. A. Murrell, and S. W. Eason.

The Walton-Green prize was awarded to Mr. E. C. Armstrong; the mathematical prize was awarded to Mr. H. H. Snerman; the English prize to Mr. A. R. Dudderer, and the Shakesperian prize to Mr. J. E. Warnsley. THE PROCESSION.

At 11:45 the Board of Trustees, who had been in session all morning, adjourned. The hour for the morning exercises having arrived a procession was formed and moved in the following order to the lecture hall in Duncan-Memorial chapel:
Kesnich's band; the marshis; Messrs. D. H. Kesnich's band; the marshis; Messrs. D. H. Lierar, A. C. Ray, H. H. Sherman, of Washington Literary Society; William Stevens, R. S. Baughan, and H. Canter, of the Franklin Society; and W. W. Luck, H. L. Moore, A. L. Richardson, from the college; Bishops Wilson and Granbery; trustees, faculty, and students. The room was filled with the fair sex. Over the rostrum was a handsome portrait of General R. E. Lee, The hall was trimmed with college colors, making a very pleasing and attractive appearance. Richard B. Davis, Esq., of Petersburg, president of the Alumni Society, presided, and with him on the platform sat Bishop Granbery and Messrs. Patton, Buchanan, Eason, Newberry and Kestler, who vere tocontest for the Sutherlin prize medal. The exercises were onested by a forwent rayer offered by Bishop At 11:45 the Board of Trustees, who had been

THE RIERCISE.

Mr. Davis then apologized for the absence of the crator, Bishop J. H. Vincent, of the Northern Methodist Episcopal Church, who was detained by iliness. He said that he had been notified this morning that he would be expected to make the address, but, like all other diffident men, he would be compelled to decline, though he had felt at one time he would read a paper on Corporation Law, which he had been preparing for some time.

SHORT TALK.

GHORT TALE.

Feeling it would be tiresome he had concluded to call upon different members of the Alumini Society for short talks of five minutes. He then asked Dr. Judkins its says a few words. The Doctor felt that he had no right to encroach on the time of those present, but as he had been called upon he wished to offer his congratulations upon the grand success of Randolph-Macon College and its sister institution. He spoke of the splendid work done by Professor W. W. Smith, and in closing paid him one of the handsomest tributes ever heard by those who were fortunate to be present.

the Alumni Society of the institution, and that he felt that it would be an utter impossibility for him to pay back to his college all it had done for him. He suggested that the faculty prepares short paper each year showing the work done it the different branches, and also let them state the wants of each chair. By this means an interest might be worked up which would be of substantial aid to the college. After his remarks Mr. Davis thanked the audience and the speakers for their attention.

THE SUTHERLIN MEDAL.

Professor W. W. Smith, president of the college, announced that the speaking for the Sutherlin medal would then begin. By resolution of the Board of Trustees each speaker was limited to twenty minutes and three judges had been selected who were then in the audience, who would announce to-morrow the name of the gentleman who was to have the honor of wearing the medal. Professor R. B. Smithers, the secretary of the faculty, was then asked to keep the time of the speakers, and the first one was Mr. J. T. Kestler; who took for his subject "National Pride and Responsibility."

The second speaker was Mr. R. W. Patton, whose subject was "The Illustrious Men of the South; Love of Truth and Right."

Isaac W. Eason, of Virginia, spoke next. His subject was "Usefulness—The Condition of Success."

After the several speeches an adjournment was had until to-night ALUMNI OFFICEBS.

The Alumni Society held its annual meeting in the Gymnasium building and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: S. S. Lambeth, D. D., of Lynchburg, preedent; Professor R. B. Smithy, of Randolph-Macon College, secretary, and Professor W. A. Shepard, corresponding secretary and treasurer. Rev. George M. Booker was elected to make the address before the society at the next commencement, A committee of three, Rev. James Cannon, Rev. B. F. Lipscomb, and Rev. James Cannon, Rev. B. F. Lipscomb, and Rev. James A Duncan, were appointed to confer with the Jacquity to devise some means of securing a larger attendance of the alumni at the commencements.

BISHOP WILSON'S ADDRESS. He alluded to the teaching of the middle ages, when men gathered disciples by their individuality and not merely by text-books. He said the believed that true education was set forth by Garneld, when he said "that his idea of a university was a plain bench with a student on one end and Mark Hopkins on the other."

ANNUAL ADDRESS.

Professor Francis H. Smith, of the University of Virginia, delivered the annual address before the school. His theme was "aducation as implying first—something in the soul to be lead out or developed; and secondly, some one to be leader, to guide and teach. He made a splendid plea for the higher education of women, and his address produced a profound impression. No happier effectwas probably ever made before the institution on a similar occasion.

Shearer and Professor Winston.

(Special telegram to the Dispatch.)

HAMPDEN-STDNEY COLLEGE. Va., June 17.—The commencement exercises of this staid old institution of learning to-day were of unusual interest. Addresses of rare excellence were delivered by two of its honored aiumni. The Roy Dr. J. B. Shearer, of the class of 54. The Roy Dr. J. B. Dr. J. Dr. J. B. Dr.

this morning.

The Profescor graduated in the class of 1854 and took the first honor. He was the following year an instructor here. His alma mater gave him the degree of LL-D. in 1883.

After a pleasant word of introduction and a complimentary reference to his alma mater, Professor Winston announced as his suject "The Becent Progress of the Physical Sciences and the Influence of that Progress on Other Departments of Knowledge." He characterized this as pre-eminently the age of science, and showed by reference to college curricula, to school courses, to current literature, to books for children as well as for saints, and by the constant reference to scientific facts from pulpit and platform, that the world folt an interest in such matters that it had never evinced before. And then, on the practical side, he well illustrated the growth of science, not so much by the multiplication of scientific twontions, like the telephone and the electric light, as by the increase of scientific knowledge. The spectroscope, with its wondrous revelations on earth and in the heavens, was referred to as having almost revolutionized astronomy since his college days; and with the aid of the camera it was enlarging our knowledge almost beyond conception. "The faintest light-message dispatched to us on the waves of ether from the far-off star a thousand years ago is defuly caught on its arrival by the wary spectroscope, its intricate folds are delicately unfolded, the story that it tells is read, and ere the gleam is gone a copy is taken by the camera, and he record laid away in the arching of science for he ages to some.

ADVANCEN RIEGURITY.

Other illustrations were given, including the immense advance in our knowledge of electricity. The speaker also introduced, with evident hestation, the growth of the evolution idea as another illustration. He quoted leading biologists to show that Darwin's book, published in 1859, had wholly changed the stand point from which all biological problems are considered. He disavowed any purpose to pronounce upon the truth or untruth of the decrines of evolution, as his studies had not been in that direction, and he was not been in that direction, and he was not entitled te an opinion about them, but it was clearly in the line of his argument to note the indisputable fact that their evolutionary doctrines were not only powerful factors in their proper sphere of biological science, but were spreading into and affecting other departments of knowledge. "Evolution is in the air, and for the time it almost dominate our modes of thought in many directions."

CHARACTERISTICS OF SCIENCE.

4. A slowness to believe and an unfalling demand for sufficient proof.
5. A habit of drawing sharply and strongly the lines between the known and the unknown, the more or less probable, and the unknownle.
These characteries of the scientific method showed themselves primarily in the physical sciences. The speaker went on to show that they had of late years diffused themselves into other departments.

the result of this influx of scientifi the Professor hold that they were in the ultary. "Science has winnowed out the m many a scattered heap of grain." Bu and from many a scattered heap of grain." But see were some dangers; there might be in the reased pursuit of science a tendency to matellism. Too much sub-division, and too much tention to little things might make men narwent might make men oblivious to those ings which appeal to our faith. In conclusion e speaker begged that there might be better understanding between science men and others, and especially eministers of the Gospel. He depreted the natural misunderstanding, the estionings of motives, the prejudices, and the nunctations sometimes indulged in, and hoped the day when science and theology should merged into one universal science, whose shirtion should be 'a knowledge of God and s works'"

RED HOT ABOUT OHIO

ADMINISTRATION TEMPERATURE AT SHERMAN'S DEFEAT.

ocrats in High Feather-A Democratic tion Republicans are feeling the intense heat more than other folks here to-day, because the Ohio Republican Convention has not been acting to suit them. Indeed the Harrison followers are mad and disgusted over a gathering that is nothing more nor less than a Blaine-Foraker jubi-lee, and the practical defeat of Senator Sherman and the triumph of the Foraker "kids" is a thing that is really mortifying to mossbacks in the "grand old party." It was not unexpected, however, for it has been reported for more than a month that the excepted for the first part of the convention from endorsing Senator Sherman for re-election, and while Mr. McKniey has apparently had an ovation, it is a Well-known fact that the farmers of the Buckeye State are laying a rod in pickle for that high-tax advocate, and he may pressibly be defeated, too. This is what is giving the Administration people, and especially the Onlo crowd here, so much alarm. The turning down of so eminent a man as Senator Sharman is bound to have a disastrous effect on the bampaign, and it is expected that that there will be amerry war all along the line from now until the closing of the polls on election-day in November.

HAPPY DEMOCRATS.

The Democrats are feeling happy and the bot weather does not trouble men in that party. They get reports from Ohio to the effect that Governor Campbell is sweeping everything before him, and he will be renominated with a rush. The Cincunnati crowd will have to come into the fold again. With the big prestige that Governor Campbell will have they cannot afford to fight him any longer. The Republicans cannot hope to be united after the events of their convention, and with such a fair prospect of a Democratic victory every one in that party will feel like falling into line.

PATTISON'S PERSIDENTIAL REE. PATTISON'S PRESIDENTIAL BEE.

PATTISON'S PRESIDENTIAL BEE.

Pennsylvania Democrate who have been in the city during this week assert positively that Governor Pattison has the presidential bee in his at, and they are of the opinion that he will have the solid delegation from the State next year, and that it will be instructed to go for that gentleman from start to finish. Pennsylvania has never had but one President, and the friends of Governor Pattison are confident that if he should be nominated he could carry the State. He is a strong man, and having twice carried the State he would give the Republicans the liveliest battle that over they fought. He may not be nominated, but the bare fact that he is fixing the wires to have his own delegation has somewhat agitated the aspirants in other states.

A GENTLEMEN'S IDEA.

A gentleman who has been closely watching the drift of public sentiment says that he looks for Maryland to send a Gorman delegation to the national convention, that Hill will have New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut, that Gray will go to the convention with Indiana shouting LIBREY'S SCCCESS.

Ex-Congressman Harry Libbey arrived here this morning and visited the Post-Office Department. He succeeded in having W. S. Larribes appointed postmaster at Phoebus, Va., in place of Mr. Subers, resigned. The papers were made put and the official announcement will be made in a few days. J. L. Catlett was to-day appointed postmaster at Three Square, Goochiand county, Va., sice R. D. James, resigned, and L. H. Scott at Hawfield. Alamance county, N. C., sice J. C. Scott, deceased.
